About Cash

Cash is a defensive asset, as it's expected to maintain the value of the principal investment but has relatively low returns.

Who is Cash suitable for?

Suitable for people who are willing to accept lower returns in exchange for little or no risk of negative returns.

What assets does Cash invest in?

Money in the Cash investment option is held with Australia and New Zealand Banking Group Limited ABN 11 005 357 522 (ANZ). When you invest in this option, your funds are pooled with those of other members and placed in an at-call account with ANZ.

What are the investment return objectives?

Before tax but after investment management fees, to exceed the return of an investment compounding at the Reserve Bank of Australia's (RBA) Cash Rate each year.

What's the minimum time you should invest in Cash?

Cash is a short-term investment with no minimum time frame.

Cash's standard risk measure^

Cash's risk level is very low. The table below shows the estimated number of annual negative returns over any 20 year period. These negative returns can be experienced several years apart or several years in a row within the 20 year period.

What to look for in investment performance?

As Cash is one of the least risky investment options, investors should expect to preserve their capital but to also experience low long-term returns. As such, Cash is more suitable for investors who have few years left to invest their super and have little time to ride out the ups and downs of riskier investment options.

What does this mean for my investment choice?

When deciding which investment option is right for you, it's important to focus on how much time you have to invest, how much risk you're comfortable with and how much super you need for retirement. If you're still unsure about the right investment option for you, you should talk to your financial adviser.

 Past performance isn't necessarily an indication of future performance.

^ We've measured risk using the super industry's standard risk measure so you can compare investment options between different funds. The standard risk measure describes risk based on the number of negative annual returns expected over any 20 year period. It's calculated using a simulated model that takes into account factors that may affect returns. This isn't a complete assessment of investment risk, as it doesn't show the size of negative returns, whether you'll meet your investment objective or the impact of fees and taxes on your returns. The real world is complex and not always rational. This means mathematical theories may not always play out in practice. You need to be comfortable with the risk and potential losses of your chosen investment options. Visit mine.com.au for more information about the standard risk measure, the Trustee's risk assessment methodology and other types of investment risk.
